

Descendants of Lady Joan Dingley

Joanna "Joan" Dingley, was a Mistress of King Henry VIII and a royal laundress, and the girl was raised by one of the cutters in the king's wardrobe (who cut clothing patterns out of cloth).

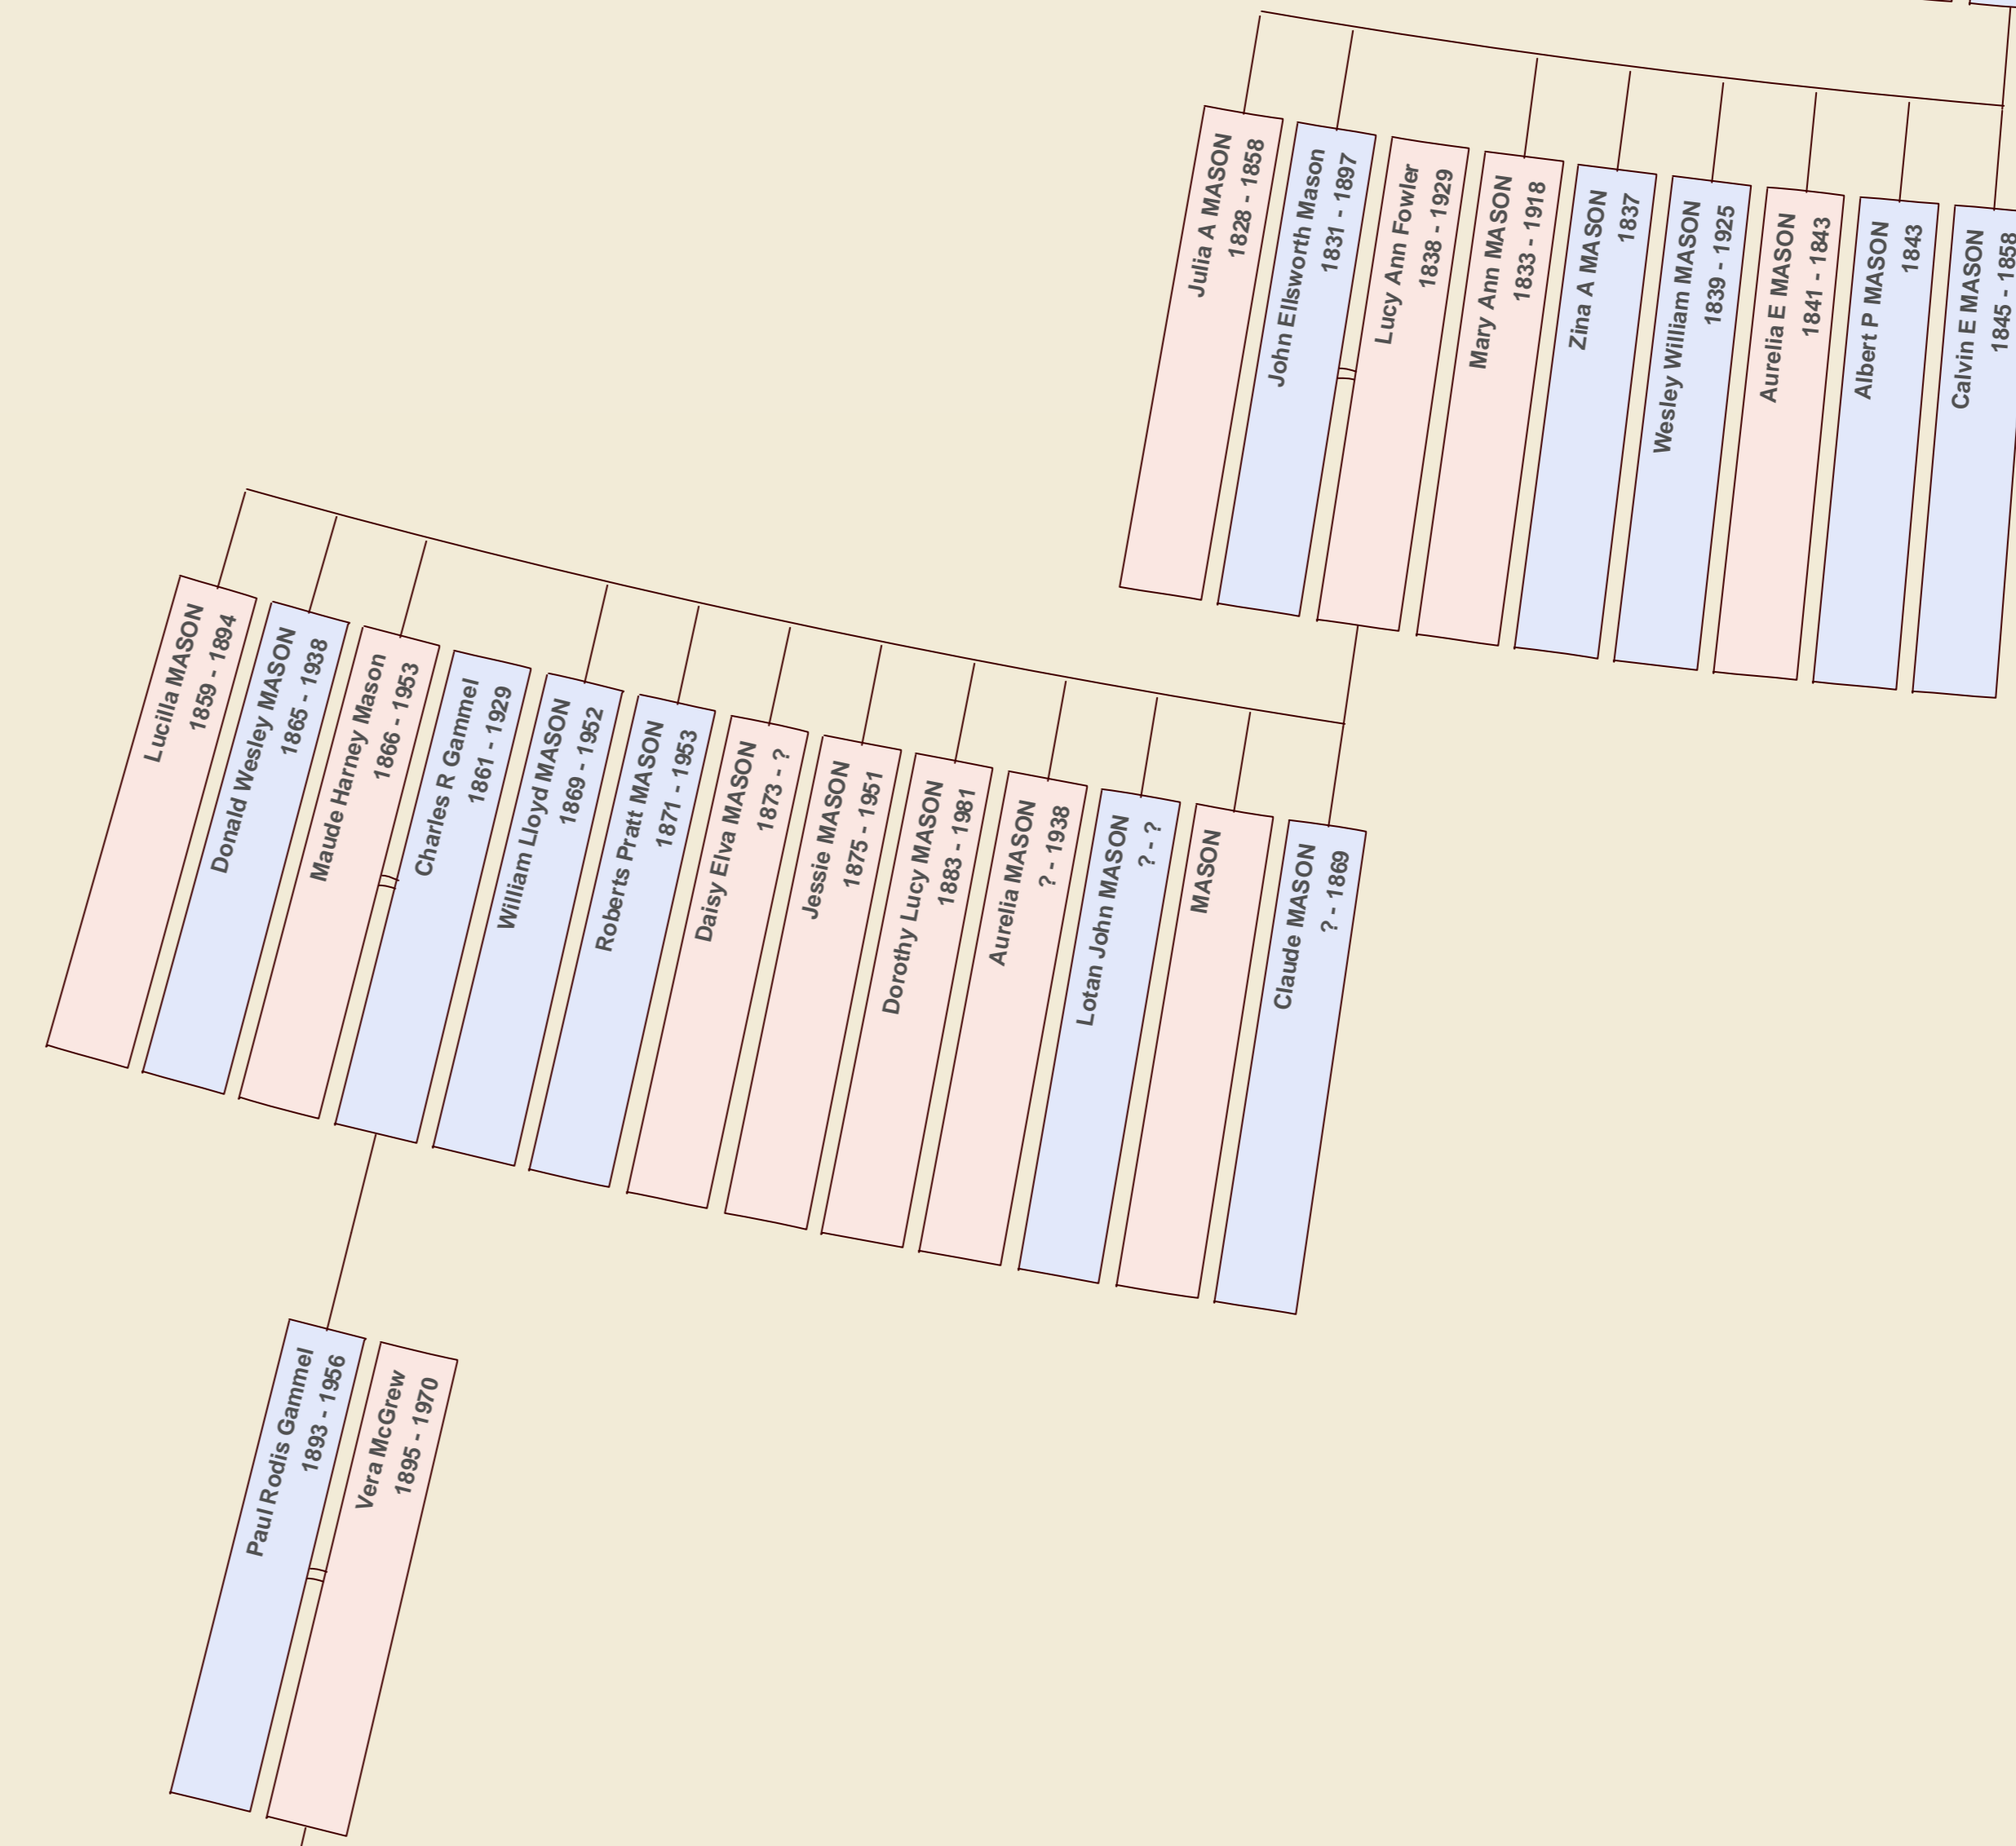

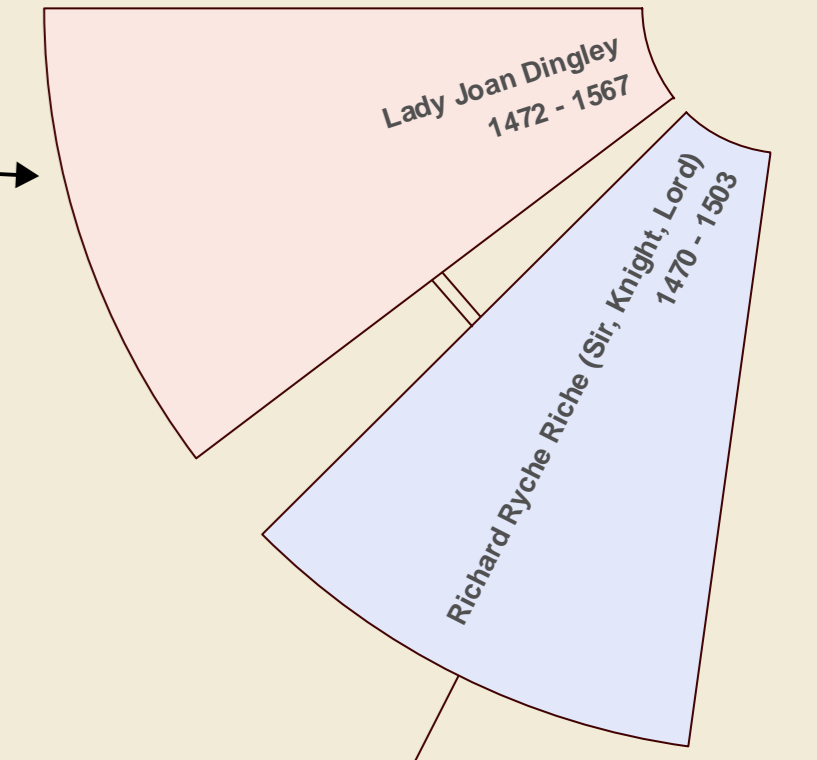

Joan gave birth to her daughter called Ethelreda or Audrey Malte .

Contemporary reports claim that Joan had Audrey with Henry VIII but it was not confirmed for definite but Henry's tailor, John Malte recognised her as Henry's illegitimate daughter.

Not much more is known about Joan Dingley or her daughter .

Sir Richard Rich, 1st Baron Rich, gained notoriety during the reign of Henry VIII, working initially with his Chief Minister, Sir Thomas Cromwell. He became Lord Chancellor under Edward VI and served under Queen Mary and then Queen Elizabeth.
